Armando Raish

Armando Raish started his career in architecture then found more fulfilment in landscape design. Moving to the UK from Australia in 2006, he pursued his passion for urban greening by starting his own vertical growing company.

He established Treebox Ltd in 2009 to offer innovative growing solutions for both indoor and outdoor spaces.

Through Treebox he hopes to generate interest in sustainability issues surrounding urban living, cities and communities, food production and our ecological impact on the earth.
